THE WINDJAMMER ON A TALKIE. ROUNDING THE HORN. THE FILM CRITIC'S AND A SAILOR'S IMPRESSIONS.

British Instructional Films in London last month showed the film that has been made out of the "shots" by A. J. Villiers and the late Ronald Walker, two Australian journalists, who shipped before the mast in the Finnish Grace Hawar.
The last of the full-length Cape Horn wind-jammers. But it is a disappointing film, because, despite magnificent sea-scenes, the sea is not made the centre of the film.
In an effort to give the film a story,
to make scenes have been fitted into it.

These scenes tell the story of the actual voyage, on which Villiers' companion was killed, but they lack dramatic significance and seem to interrupt the voyage. A young man ships on board the windjammer, which is voyaging to England from Australia by way of Cape Horn.
He is a bad sailor, but his man-
doline wins him some popularity.
Then in a fight over a girl's photograph he wounds a man's hand,
and when that man is ordered aloft
to attend to a gasket on the fore-topmast yard, he takes his place,
falls, and is buried at sea.

Missing Links.
The ship docks, the voyage is over—and we have had no sense of having rounded Cape Horn at all,
because that event, which should have been the pivot of the film, is announced only by excerpts from the hero's diary. As this hero is entirely uninteresting, the submergence of the sea interest before the would-be dramatic is particularly unfortunate. Such scenes of the sea and of the ship as we are allowed to see are magnificent, but they are interrupted so often by a series of scenes depicting fun in the fo'c'sle that there is very little sense of the voyage as a whole, and none whatever of the labour involved.

There is very little feeling of men's reactions to the sea, even though a disproportionate amount of footage is given to the crew, because this footage contains little that is significant. The drama of the young man trying to work his way home is not dramatic enough to stand by itself, and for the rest there is only a series of splendid but separate sea-scenes which one wishes could have been put to a sharper use—if they could not have been left to themselves. A. P.
Herbert wrote the dialogue and Hermann Lohr the music. The part of the hero was acted by Tony Bruce, who has an unfortunate voice. The film has an "A" certificate.

How the Seaman Saw It.

The film being the first real record of a sailing ship on a long voyage, and perhaps the last that could be taken under such conditions, "a sailor" has given his impressions of how it seemed to one who had been through it all. He writes:—
I saw the ship Grace Hawar in Newcastle, N.S.W., in 1907 or 1908.
She was then loading coal for Iquique. To-day I saw her homeward bound from Wallaroo off the Horn, in the doldrums, and tied up to the wharf at London, all from a comfortable armchair seat in the New Gallery Cinema. With me was an ancient shipmaster who had first rounded the Horn in 1874.

A Sailor's Comments.

The picture was a true picture rendering of a voyage round the Horn without the added interest of a plot and story, which we thought was quite unnecessary. But then we were both sailors, and nothing could have made sailors out of the actors, in our eyes. We were bound to be critical, but found little to criticise. One man walked forward to leeward during a gale when she was shipping water. We were disappointed he didn't get washed into the lee scuppers as he deserved to be. No seaman walks to leeward in heavy weather, always to windward. I would have liked to have seen them fishing for and catching a few Bonitas or Albacore from the jibboom, using the grana or harpoon from the bunks when they were hungry. They might even have caught the shark we saw alongside (which, by the way, looked very like a grampus to me). I've eaten shark steaks myself in the doldrums.

Seamen's Superstitions.

The seamen's superstitions were marked and well shown but I didn't see anyone kick the boy for whistling, and, alas, there was no black cat. My old friend and I enjoyed every minute of it. The real picture was much too short for us, but the picture wasn't made for sailors.
I counted at least twelve shipmasters present, some who had swallowed the anchor and some who still followed the sea. My old friend remarked as we left, "That picture will send a few boys to sea."

We didn't see enough of the captain, who gave the real atmosphere to the picture. He seemed distressed when he showed us the chart with three days' backing and filling in the doldrums. He was lucky.
I've spent sixteen days backing and filling in these latitudes before getting the N.E. trades. The burial scene was impressive. It was a real burial at sea, I believe. The flag at half-mast was not the British flag, nor was the one covering the bier. We heard the service read by the captain—a simple and short one —as I have heard it read more than once.

MARCONI ON THE NEXT TEN YEARS.

"MY WORK IS NOT YET DONE," SAYS FAMOUS INVENTOR.

Marchese Marconi, the man who gave wireless to the world, recently spoke by long-distance telephone to a London paper from his villa in a tiny resort near Rome, and drew a remarkable prophetic picture of the wonders of wireless ten years hence.

This fascinating story will be of absorbing interest to wireless enthusiasts.

There are still many more surprises for the world in wireless development.

The wireless exhibition which you are now holding in London marks yet another milestone in the progress of this great science, but I say that there is still much to be done, and the surprises I speak of will become actual fact during the next ten years.

Wireless has already changed the life of humanity, spanning oceans and continents in what I call an annihilation of distance, contributing a new phase in the world of music and entertainment and to politics and education.

Wheels of Commerce.

Wireless has speeded up the wheels of commerce in a fashion that our forefathers would regard as magic.

I am proud to have had something to do with this beneficial change, but my work is not yet done. Other changes are on the way and your wireless exhibitions ten years hence will show many new things, notably in television transmission, and the sending of pictures by wireless.

Great strides will be made in commercial wireless.

I am aware of certain imperfections in this direction, but they will be removed during the next few years. Security is essential in these communications.

Progress in commercial wireless during the next five years will be faster than it has been during the past thirty years.

Experts will concentrate on the perfection of the beam system.

Cutting Costs.

Wireless communications will be sent through narrow channels in the ether, just as water is sent through a pipe. They are at present too much spread all round, like water from a leaky main.

This diffusion involves greater expense in transmission. That expense will be cut down.

Wireless messages of the future will be confined to narrow paths, and the present spreading over the ether will be removed.

Messages will increase to an immeasurable extent owing to these improvements, and the man who thinks it a luxury to-day to send birthday greetings from England to Australia by wireless will in the next decade think no more of it than if he were sending a shilling telegram. Everything in the world of wireless will be cheaper.

The sending of documents and photographs by wireless will be common. Sweethearts separated by thousands of miles will be able to exchange photographs during the course of a day at a cost of a few shillings. It may be a matter of peace.

I am at present talking to the Sunday Express over the long-distance telephone. The line is bad. My yacht, the Elektra, is at anchor in the bay of Civita Vecchia. I wish I could go aboard and talk to you by wireless telephony. It is not possible to-day, but in ten years' time, possibly before then, it will be.

Crystal-Clear Voice.

My voice from Civita Vecchia will be crystal-clear. There will be no interruptions, and communication will be established in a matter of minutes instead of hours.

My voice will travel across an invisible path through the ether, and it will be heard by nobody but the person to whom I am talking.

Television is still in the experimental stage, but in the next decade I think you will find that it will be installed in as many homes as now have wireless sets.

Television and wireless will bring the world to the cottage parlour. Wireless has speeded up life. It will speed it up still more when we are complete masters of the ether. This is not yet the case, but in ten years we shall be approaching complete control.

S.O.S. BROADCASTS.

The total of S.O.S. messages broadcast by the B.B.C. in the first half of this year shows that the number of these appeals is steadily increasing. The total was 453, compared with 881 for the whole of last year. The percentage of those successful was 89, against 41 last year. The average of S.O.S. messages is nearly three a day, and there is a feeling among listeners that it is unduly high.

Many of the appeals are, of course, sent out at the request of the police, and public interest may be urged as justification, but it may be pointed out that only 21 per cent of the appeals for missing persons produced any result in the first half of this year. As for the remainder of the appeals, can a private person's affairs ever afford justification for breaking into the evening's diversions of millions of people?

One gathers that the abolition of the S.O.S. would not cause any tears to be shed at Savoy Hill, for not a day passes without various absurd requests for appeals, requests which often entail a waste of valuable time among the officials.

LISTENERS IN BRITAIN.

Licence figures in Britain still continue on the up-grade and it would be a bold prophet who ventured to forecast "saturation point." The recently-issued B.B.C. report shows that there are now well over 3,000,000 licences in the country, and there is every sign that broadcasting still continues to claim increasing numbers of new adherents.

Last year's figures showed an increase of 339,344 on 1928, and brought the total in force at the end of 1929 to 2,950,736. Since then the three-million mark has been passed, so that the B.B.C. is quite justified in claiming that there are no signs of retrogression. The financial return is also good, since it shows an income of £1,470,000 from licences, of which the B.B.C. received £244,301, against £271,704 in 1928, the Post Office £183,750, and the Treasury £341,910.

The latter sum may be regarded as a sort of unofficial entertainment tax, but when it is considered in relation to the money expended on programmes, which amounted to no more than £540,070, the listener has surely the right to ask whether the Exchequer is entitled to such a lion's share. And despite this "take-off" the Government continue to haggle with the Colonies about the vexed question of an Empire licence fee, which the Treasury has deducted from listeners' licence fees, to build an Empire Station!

THE SILVER SCREEN.

"THE ROGUE SONG," AN OPERATIC FILM.

The talking-picture debut of Lawrence Tibbett, Metropolitan opera star, will take place at the Queen's Theatre on Sunday in "The Rogue Song," a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, directed by Lionel Barrymore and filmed entirely in Technicolor.

The picture, the first approach to an operatic film, is considered to be one of the most important productions of the year, and entailed elaborate preparations. The scenario, based upon the operetta, "Gypsy Love," was written by Frances Marion with dialogue by John Colton, of "Rain" and "Shanghai Gesture" fame, and music by Franz Lehár and Herbert Stothart. The lyrics are the work of Clifford Grey. Besides Tibbett's songs the musical innovations of the production include an aria sung by Elsa Aken, Wagnerian soprano, with a women's chorus and numbers sung by Wallace MacDonald's accompanied by a large male chorus.

There is also an Albertina Rasch ballet of 100 girls, who dance to special music contributed by the modernistic composer, Dimitri Tiomkin.

The producers of "The Rogue Song" state that despite the elaborate music, ballads, the colour details, the picture is not "high brow," Barrymore making it a point to submerge the music to the interesting plot, and using the songs only at strategic points in the narrative where they will be heard as a natural part of the story.

Duncan Sisters at the Queen's.

Knowing full well what their patrons expect after such tremendous successes as "Sunny Side Up" and "Free and Easy," the management of the Queen's Theatre have put on "It's a Great Life," featuring the world-famous Duncan sisters—Vivian and Rosetta, who have been so successful in such productions as "Hitchy Koo" and "Tip Top" at Winter Garden shows in New York, and in "Pins and Needles" and "Clowns in Clover" in London.

Some of the newest and most distinctive creations are revealed in the fashion show number of this great "talkie." Style's, which spell the end of the flapper's reign are featured and introduced in a novel way; the show starts with the latest in boudoir pyjamas and negligees and follows the hands of the clock throughout the sport and luncheon hours on to the tea and bridge parties to the formal dinner and evening affairs.

This is but one part of an excellent film in which song numbers are presented in the snappiest way. Supporting Vivian and Rosetta Duncan are such favourites as Lawrence Gray, Jed Prouty and Benny Rubin.

"Tanned Legs"

No two youngsters in moving pictures could be paired more effectively than June Clyde and Arthur Lake, who have the leading roles in "Tanned Legs," Radio Pictures' beautiful show, which opened last night at the Central Theatre.

They epitomize all the infectious gaiety of youth in their portrayals of Peggy Reynolds and her man, Bill—leaders of the "Dynamite Division," the jolly young crowd at a beach club.

This is June Clyde's first important rôle before the camera, although she has gained considerable prominence on the West Coast as a singer and dancer of ability. According to RKO executives, who recently signed her to a long-term contract, she is one of the most scintillating personalities to reach the screen in many months.

Arthur Lake has carved an enviable niche for himself in Hollywood by his juvenile characterizations, and is already in the front rank of youthful players.

The two head a cast of outstanding quality which includes those Broadway favourites, Ann Pennington and Allen Kearns. Others are Sally Blane, Dorothy Revier, Albert Gray, Edmund Burns, Nellie Walker and Lincoln Stedman.

A chorus of 40 Hollywood beauties adds greatly to the entertainment value.

The Last Survivor on the Titanic.

The last survivor to be rescued from the Titanic was Thomas Whiteley. After clinging to wreckage for seven and a half hours he was dragged out of the North Atlantic more dead than alive. Then he served for four years in the British army—one year in the Imperial Light Horse in South Africa and three years and seven months in the Royal Flying Corps. He was wounded five times, decorated twice, and mentioned once in despatches—and now he is playing the Sergeant-Major in "Journey's End," the Tiffany all-dialogue production of R.C. Sherriff's great war play showing on Sunday at the Central Theatre.

Whiteley was born in Edinburgh. His mother was an actress and he became familiar with the stage when he played a few child rôles as a boy. His career on the New York stage was featured by the Ziegfeld Follies in 1924, two years with the Schuberts in "Sky High," "The Passing Snow of 1926," with Mollie in "Naughty Riquetti," and with Eleanor Painter in "The Nightingale."

In 1927 Whiteley went to Hollywood and for almost two years was under contract to Educational. Recently he staged "The Wishing Well," an original operetta, at the Mason Theatre in Los Angeles and a revue at the Music Box Revue in Hollywood.

Although Whiteley was a great Rugby player in England he is now a confirmed fan of the American game, and often travels half-way across the continent to witness one of the big clashes.

"Lilac Time" with Colleen Moore.

Kathryn McGuire, who plays a prominent supporting part in "Lilac Time," First National's special production starring Colleen Moore, which will be shown at the Majestic Theatre, Kowloon, to-day for an extended run, has been proclaimed the most beautiful blonde in Hollywood.

Miss McGuire, whose beauty is of the Anglo-Saxon type, is aptly fitted for the rôle she portrays in the picture, that of a haughty daughter of English nobility. She was born in Peoria, and before entering the movies enjoyed success on the stage as a classic dancer. "Lilac Time" marks her second appearance on the screen with Miss Moore, the other time being "Naughty but Nice," in which she played the boarding-school chum of the winsome star.

"Lilac Time" is the story of a little French girl, who "mothers" a squadron of young British aviators stationed on her grandmother's farm during the World War. The picture is acclaimed to be one of the greatest screen achievements, and marks a new highlight for Miss Moore's screen achievements.

"Lilac Time" was directed by George Fitzmaurice, and produced for First National Pictures by John McCormick. The chief supporting rôle is played by Gary Cooper, while others in the cast include Barr McIntosh, George Cooper, Olive Moore, Emile Chastard, Jack Stone, Edward Dillon and Stuart Knox.

TWINKLING FEET AND NIMBLE WITS.

"The dissemination of wireless may be instrumental in changing the whole temperament of the race in the course of time," said Mr. Cyril Scott, the British composer, when speaking over the microphone at the Radio Exhibition in London last month.

"It may ginger up their mind," he said, "tickle up their brain, and make them think a bit quicker. Their slow-moving legs will feel more like dancing, and so on. Before the introduction of radio we had no musical gloom-dispeller handy. So if we couldn't play the piano or did not possess a gramophone we had to put up with gloominess or get rid of it as best we could."

It was "Celebrities Day" at the Exhibition and one of the turns was a verbal boxing match between Sophie Tucker, the actress, and Hanne Swaffer, the Dramatic critic. They were described by the announcer as two outstanding international personalities.

It was an amusing "scrap." Hanne Swaffer called Sophie "My dear" at least a dozen times. "How is your sore face that was smacked?" she asked, and then listeners throughout the exhibition heard a resounding kiss as she pretended to kiss Hanne Swaffer.

RADIO WAVES FOR COOKING.

NUMEROUS BENEFITS.

New investigations into possibilities of the short-wave high-power vacuum tube give hope of producing radio waves which will do the family cooking, provide wireless illumination for homes, reduce pain and cure disease, according to Dr. Willis R. Whitney, director of the General Electric Research Laboratories.

Simplified mechanisms and a reduction in the cost of producing large volumes of radio energy are problems now facing solution. With these problems disposed of, control of the new power immediately will open up lines of advance in industry and therapeutics hitherto closed to science, Dr. Whitney stated.

Sizzling Sausages.

In experimenting with the tube, it was found that by placing a wire over a table at a distance of a few feet from a radiating aerial, which was a copper bar about 10 feet long, a sausage in a glass container suspended from the bar was soon cooked thoroughly. The tube from which this power was produced was two feet long and five inches in diameter.

Alleviating Pain.

Different applications of this tube have been under investigation. For generations heat has been known to be useful in alleviating pain and curing some diseases. Recently medical research has indicated that fever temperatures in the human body are destructive to certain diseases. The new vacuum tube produces this heat, causing blood temperatures to rise to 100 degrees Fahrenheit—in 15 minutes.

Dr. Whitney stated that as yet the high-power short-wave tubes are being used for experimental purposes only and the task now before the investigators is to bring them into practical usefulness at a reasonable cost and discover their possibilities for service to the world.

WIRELESS IN SCHOOLS.

The Central Council for School Broadcasting is taking steps to secure an improvement in the receiving apparatus used by schools in Great Britain. The necessity of a set which will reproduce the voice clearly is vital, but there are certain types of sets which are not suitable for classroom use although excellent for private houses.

The Council states that "many schools," through lack of expert guidance, spend the money they have laboriously collected on such unsuitable apparatus that their trial of the broadcast lessons is prejudiced by bad conditions.

The Council has appointed a technical sub-committee which will indicate the main principles of design and performance by which types of sets may be judged, and will arrange for independent tests of apparatus specially submitted by manufacturers. This sub-committee will be able to insist on obtaining from the suppliers a guarantee that it has been approved as conforming to the standard of the sub-committee. It is expected that these arrangements will be completed soon.

MUNICIPAL SCANDAL IN NEW YORK.

MAGISTRATE & TAMMANY.

REPUBLICAN HOPE OF ADVANTAGE.

New York City is in the midst of a series of grave municipal scandals which may have important political effects. In several departments of the City government official investigations in recent months have shown bribery and corruption, and a number of persons have been removed from responsible positions, some also having been indicted and a few sentenced to prison.

The latest of these scandals is also one of the most serious. It is alleged that a municipal magistrate, Mr. George F. Ewald, bought his seat on the bench, paying some $2,000 for it. Bank records show that a similar sum passed at the same date through the hands of two important figures in the municipal administration, who are also connected with Tammany Hall, the unofficial society which the Democratic party that rules New York, and has done so almost consecutively for a hundred years. The Mayor, Mr. James A. Walker, and Mr. George W. Olvany, former leader of Tammany, yesterday appeared before the District Attorney and denied the charge that Ewald bought the seat.

The City is gravely disturbed, however, and it is certain that these denials will not end the matter. The Republicans are jubilant over numerous recent disclosures of corruption in New York, and hope to turn them to political advantage. There is no election in the city this year, but State officers will be chosen in November, and the Republicans hope that they may be able to elect a Governor and control the State's Legislature. The Democrats, however, expect to swing the balance in their favour by advocating the repeal of the prohibition amendment. The Republicans are hardly likely to do the same thing because the National Government, which is now in the hands of Republicans, is committed more or less solidly against repeal.

SULTAN OF JOHORE'S WEDDING.

REMARKABLE SCENES IN LONDON.

Remarkable scenes were witnessed when H.H. the Sultan of Johore and Mrs. Helga Wilson were married at the Prince's Row Register Office on October 15. Following the publicity given to the announcement of the wedding by the London newspapers, a huge crowd gathered outside the office and police reinforcements had to be called. An attempt to rush the doors was checked with difficulty. The Sultan was challenged when he arrived, and answered, "I am the bridegroom." Mrs. Wilson wore a dark-red costume trimmed with fur.

After the ceremony the police had difficulty in keeping back the crowd when the Sultan left with his bride. They proceeded to Grosvenor House, where a luncheon party, at which six guests were present, was held.

In the afternoon they went to the Mosque at Woking, where a religious ceremony was held. The Sultan stated that the honeymoon would probably be spent on the Continent, after which he would return to Johore with his bride.

Mrs. Wilson, who is 40 years of age, was formerly the wife of Dr. Brockie Wilson, whom she divorced. The Sultan is 57.

EX-RULER'S BID FOR £35,000,000 IN GOLD.

FORMER LORD OF 110
WIVES.

Saiyid Mir Alam Khan, once Emir of Bokhara, lord of a harem of 110 beautiful women, a Croesus whose fortune was £35,000,000 in gold coin, and a man who ruled 1,250,000 people with absolute power, is now a poor exile on the outskirts of Kabul.

He has despatched an envoy to the League at Geneva pleading for help to regain his kingdom, and revenge against the Bolsheviks who drove him from his domain, and stole his treasures.

A Soviet commissar now rules over Bokhara, and the hoards in the mighty treasurers have long since been sent to Russia. The Emir's story reads like the history of a militant baron of the Middle Ages.

Treasure Chambers.

He is fifty years of age, a well-built man with a great black beard, a ruler of whom it has been said that "he had the most ominous sense of humour in India."

He dwelt in his capital of Bokhara, a city surrounded by a stone wall, eight miles long and twenty-eight feet high. Eleven gates guarded the city, and semi-circular towers protected the walls.

The city has a population of 100,000 and is the greatest trading centre of Central Asia. In a giant citadel in the heart of the city were the Emir's treasure chambers.

He is known to have possessed £35,000,000 in gold coin and ingots, apart from his superb jewellery, stated by experts to be the most magnificent collection of precious stones in all Asia.

The gates of the treasure chambers were opened at sundown, and closed at sundown, and were guarded by sentries. The Emir inspected his treasury twice daily.

He ruled in the wild way of these Eastern monarchs. Four brothers and twenty-five relations with claims to the throne were slaughtered indiscriminately shortly after his accession. Political agitators and recalcitrant nobles were either massacred wholesale or left to die in the dungeons.

His harem consisted of 110 peerless women. He had been a major-general in the old Russian Army and aide-de-camp of the Czar. It seemed he was supreme.

And then in August 1920 the bomb-shell burst!

For many months the Soviet, in the guise of "emancipators," had been financing the Young Bokharan Party, urging them to revolt and overthrow the rule of a tyrannical Emir. The unrest grew rapidly to a storm. Saiyid saw his danger.

He sent envoys post haste to Delhi offering to confide his £35,000,000 to the care of the British Government, and moreover undertaking to incorporate his State unconditionally within the British Empire!

The Government refused. Saiyid was left to face the Russian onslaught.

On August 5, 1920, the attack came. Bribery had done its work well. The gates were open, troops were apathetic. The Emir awoke to find his capital in the hands of Soviet infantry.

The Emir disguised himself as a carrier, and was actually passing the main gateway of his capital when the first enemy files broke in.

Two of Saiyid's sons were exported to Moscow by the invaders and placed in a Government university to be "educated." Scores of the more literate youth of Bokhara were placed in similar institutions at the propaganda centre of Tashkent, and they have since gone forth into Bokhara to spread the Soviet cause.

The situation to-day is politically delicate. Russia is not a member of the League of Nations.

"The Emir's appeal is not so hopeless as it seems at first hand," said a Foreign Office official.

"Although a nation is not a member she can be invited by the League to send representatives to a conference."

CHINESE CONSUL INSULTED STRANGE INCIDENT IN SYDNEY.

"I regard my treatment by officials on board the steamer Tai-ping last Sunday as an insult to the office I hold," said the Chinese Consul-General in Australia, Mr. E. Sung, recently. "No other country would permit the diplomatic representative of another country to be treated as I was treated."

On the arrival of the steamer Tai-ping from Japan and China, said Mr. Sung, he boarded the vessel to see some of his nationals who were passengers. He was, however, prevented from leaving the steamer for more than an hour, although other visitors were not obstructed in any way. He explained to an official that he was Consul-General and was merely visiting the ship, and was not permitted to leave. He then (Continued at foot of next column.)

ARE NOBILE'S MEN STILL ALIVE?

THEIR CHANCE OF LIFE IN THE ICY WASTE.

LESSON OF ANDREE.

The recovery of the remains of Andree and his companions after a lapse of 33 years, and especially the discovery of their dwelling-house and camp, where they had been able to support life for a considerable period, suggests inevitably the possibility that other victims of disaster are still living in the Arctic wastes hoping against hope for rescue.

It was as recently as 1829 that General Nobile's airship, the Italia, crashed near Danes Island, and while he and other members of the expedition to the Pole were brought out later, six men were snatched away in the body of the airship and were never afterwards heard of.

Numerous aeroplanes sought for them, and last year Signor Albertini, with a well-equipped expedition, including members of the Italian University Alpine Club, spent two months in the region of the disaster, but returned just a year ago to report their failure.

Column of Smoke.

The last trace of the Italia, and its six occupants, was seen when Nobile and his companions, lying braced and crumpled on the ice, noticed a column of smoke rising at a distance east of them estimated at between 12 and 20 miles.

It did not come from an explosion in the air. If the airship had fallen, possibly some of the party on board survived.

Or possibly a number of the petrol tanks had fallen out and exploded on striking the ice, and in that case the Italia may have continued to fly before the wind and descended with survivors elsewhere.

Such conjectures are more or less vain, and the mystery may never be solved. It is, nevertheless, worth while recalling that if Professor Pontremoli and his five companions ever came to earth alive they would not be entirely without resources.

General Nobile in his book relates that when he and the other members of the expedition who fell with the gondola had recovered from the shock, they found they had with them a waterproof sack containing stores.

A similar sack was inside the airship, where also, it is believed, were the sporting rifles taken with the expedition.

The failure of repeated efforts to trace the missing men makes it now difficult to hope for their safety.

It may be, nevertheless, that sooner or later, in a season like the present when the weather has been particularly open, a discovery as dramatic as that of the Andree Expedition will lay bare the secret of their fate.

THE LEAGUE'S NEW PALACE.

TO BE READY IN 1933.

The 1923 Assembly of the League of Nations should be held in the new Peace Palace, according to the surprising announcement of the League Building Committee. After more than three years of planning, during which time the money for the new League buildings has been available, work has actually started. Gangs are clearing the grounds, building roads, and levelling off preliminary to the awarding of structural contracts.

The first batch of tenders, comprising work to cost £400,000, is to be issued at once. Tenders must be in by October 15. The Building Committee, which is composed of Messrs. Bianchi (Rome), Markham (London), Peycelon (Paris), and Baron Streiff of Geneva, after a meeting with the architects, announced that contracts will be awarded on November 1.

The new League Palace is to cost about £2,000,000, and the new Library building, a gift of John D. Rockefeller, about £400,000. The bronze doors to the Peace Palace are to be designed by an American, as the Woodrow Wilson Foundation awarded the 1929 peace prize of $25,000 to the League for that purpose. The mosaic work in the entrance dome will be the gift of the German Government.

complaint to the boarding inspector, but was not allowed to land immediately.

Mr. Sung has written in protest to the Minister for Home Affairs in connection with the matter. He has also asked that Chinese passengers on steamers should be given the same treatment as Europeans; there should be no discrimination. On the Tai-ping, he said, Chinese merchants were compelled to wait for the European passengers to be permitted to land.

A HEIDELBERG 'SOUVENIR.' HEAVY FINE ON AN AMERICAN GIRL.

Owing to the fondness of tourists for souvenirs, the students of Heidelberg have issued warnings to local shops selling students' caps and ribbons, declaring that they will patronise them no longer if they sell anything so "personal" to foreigners. Already the fear of local inn-keepers from misanthropic onslaughts is greater than their natural pleasure at selling drink to the thirsty. Ancient tankards and mugs, either pewter or earthenware, displayed in these old beer-houses have often great historical value in Germany.

Recently a young American girl who removed a so-called "Luther tankard" from its shelf failed to reckon with the Heidelberg spirit. The party of which she was a member was traced all down the Rhine, and the police awaited them on the landing-stage at Coblenz. Not only did the culprit have to refund the "souvenir," but she was forced to pay a heavy fine to escape rigorous judicial proceedings which were to be opened against her if the plea of losing her boat and the size of the indemnity had not prevailed.

WEEKLY NOTES FOR COLLECTORS.

THE ANTWERP EXHIBITION.

CHINESE SPECIAL ISSUE POSTPONED.

[By W.S.]

Most if not all, collectors like to read of happenings at the stamp exhibitions held from time to time in various parts of the world, and Somerset Rivers has given us a few interesting notes regarding the "Exposition Universelle de Timbres-Poste a Anvers, August 9-15, 1930."

The Grande Salle des Felas at Antwerp was beautifully proportioned and decorated in a style at once dignified and ornate, to which the fifty draped flags gave an air of cheerful expectancy. The great hall, with the spacious adjoining small hall, were admirably suited for the International Stamp Exhibition held there from August 9 to 15, on the occasion of the centenary of Belgian independence.

On entering the hall one saw at a glance some sixty great stands, each accommodating ten large frames that conveniently held fifteen English album-pages apiece. In the small hall were some fifty or more frames in similar stands, and yet more frames on the walls of the halls and on the balconies above.

Thousands of album-pages, hundreds and hundreds of thousands of stamps, ranging from the commonest of modern stamps to the great rarities of the early days. Some may allow their minds to luxuriate in the thought of the great amount of material wealth that this huge assembly of collections must represent; others thought of the immense amount of work necessary to the making of these collections. What assiduity and painstaking effort!

It should not be supposed that rare stamps are at the sole call of anyone with money, or even one with more money. Many rare stamps may be found by the observant collector and purchased at the price of the ordinary variety. Other stamps again are common off cover, but very rare on the original envelope. Still less should it be supposed that the mere acquisition of stamps, whether rare or common, is sufficient for the making of a collection. Brains are required even to arrive at that stage, and hard work too. The mentally indolent will never go very far in the collecting world, or indeed otherwise. Concentrated attention, a reliable memory, great pertinacity, good judgment—all these are needed, even though the collector may elect to do no more than follow to the best of his ability in the footsteps of others. To those who would do pioneer work in the realm of philately must be added an ultra-observant eye, a reflective, deductive understandings as belong to discoverers in any realm.

A local collector recently asked me how he could classify the values on Portuguese stamps, and since others might experience the same difficulty, the following information is given:

$65.....65 centavos.

$100.....1 escudo.

$1.00.....1 dollar.

The Royal Army Chaplains' Department has received permission from the King to adopt the motto, "In This Sign Conquer," and the words have been embodied in the badges and insignia of the Department.

This motto, with its sign, the flaming cross, figures on one of the types of the Greek stamps of 1913 to commemorate the occupation of Macedonia, Epirus, and the Aegean Islands. On the stamps the motto is in Greek; the Latin version, "In hoc signo vinces," is perhaps more familiar.

Christianity will ever be associated with this motto, for it was adopted by Constantine prior to his great victory that did so much to spread the belief.

As Constantine was marching against the forces of Maxentius, he was informed, there appeared to him in the noonday sky the vision of a flaming cross and the legend, "By This Conquer." According to some accounts, Constantine saw the sign in a dream. He embraced Christianity and, defeating Maxentius in 312, became undisputed master of Rome and the West; and Christianity, though not accepted as the official religion, was tolerated throughout the Empire.

Parcels of forged Redjaz and Transjordan stamps bearing forged overprints have been sent to the collector's box in Cairo.

Local collectors are advised to beware, since this kind of trash has a nasty way of travelling East. (Continued at foot of next column.)

BRITISH ECONOMIC MISSION.

PASSES THROUGH COLONY ON WAY TO JAPAN.

Members of the British Economic Mission to the Far East arrived in Hong Kong on board the P. & O. steamer Macedonia yesterday. The mission is headed by Sir Ernest Thompson, chairman of the executive of the joint committee of cotton trade organisations, and its object is to inquire into the existing condition of British trade in China and Japan with a view to finding ways and means of improvement.

The Mission is at present on its way to Japan and is expected in Kobe on October 30. The members will remain in Japan for about a month, after which they will proceed to China by the Rawaipindi, arriving at Shanghai on November 29.

The Macedonia left the Colony at 6 o'clock this morning.

The members of the Mission and of the special Cotton Sub-Mission attached to it are as follows:—

Mission.—Sir Ernest Thompson (chairman), Sir Thomas Allen, Mr. James Bell, Mr. William A. Crowther, Lieut.-Col. Reginald Morcom, Mr. Louis Beale, Mr. T. St. Quinton Hill (secretary), and Mr. F. A. Barnes (assistant secretary).

Cotton Sub-Mission.—Sir Ernest Thompson (Chairman), Mr. James Bell, Mr. F. W. Birchenough, Mr. E. Duxbury, Mr. J. L. Edmondson, Mr. George Green, Mr. Arthur Reiss, Mr. Joseph Wild, and Mr. N. A. Guttary (secretary).

In connection with the aforementioned exhibition, a special stamp was issued. The design showing arms of the City of Antwerp, supported by the legendary giant, Druon Antigon, and his vanquisher, Salvius Brabo, being in large square format, printed on white wove paper, no watermark, perforated 11, and printed at the Government Printing Works, Malines. The colour is green, and the value 4 francs. On the opening day of the exhibition a large crowd waited to stream into the building as soon as the doors were opened, but only a small proportion of the people reached the exhibition-frames. The majority merely paid their admission fee of 4 francs, bought the single copy of the stamp at 4 francs to which admission entitled them, and promptly turned round and walked either straight out or back to the end of the queue!

The Chinese Ministry of Communications announces that circulation of the new postage stamps bearing pictures of revolutionary heroes, which was scheduled to start on October 10, National Independence Day, has been postponed to November or December, owing to the fact that many offices in different parts of the country have not yet received supplies of the stamps on account of delay in communications.

CHEUNG CHAU ROBBERY.

SILENT BURGLARS' BIG HAUL.

To Po Wan, a salt-fish dealer trading under the style of "Sze Cheung" at 101, San Hing Street, Cheung Chau, was the victim of an armed robbery in the early hours of yesterday when three men, carrying revolvers, raided the premises and got away with $2,720 in Hong Kong bank notes.

Po's story to the authorities was that he was asleep in the office when he was awakened by a man who pointed a revolver at him. A second man, who wore a mask, took the safe key from his girdle and passed it to a third intruder who, opening the safe, helped himself to the contents. This done, the man signalled to his confederates and they all left the shop. A feature of the robbery was that not one of the intruders spoke while inside the premises.

The victims of the plot could not offer any solution as to how the men gained entrance into his shop as none of the doors or windows were in any way tampered with. From this he concluded that they must have got in by the back door, which, very probably, was only closed and not locked.

When the Police arrived on the scene to make their investigations, to informed them that he was sure he recognised one of the robbers. One result of this piece of information is that a "wanted" circular has been issued in which the name of the suspect is given as Lam Hing, described as an unemployed shrimp catcher. Lam's age is given as 24 or 25 and he is said to be able to speak both the Hoklo and Punti dialects. A description of his clothing and appearance is also given in the circular which adds that his hair was cut in the "military fashion."

EUROPEAN WARDER STABBED.

ATTACKED BY PRISONER AT VICTORIA GAOL.

CONDITION SERIOUS.

A stabbings affray as a result of which a European Warder was seriously injured occurred in Victoria Gaol at 11 a.m. yesterday.

According to information available, it would appear that a short term prisoner was responsible for the stabbing of Acting Principal Warder H. Plumb in a hall in the old block of Victoria Gaol. The prisoners were then being mustered and one of them is alleged to have deliberately walked up to Warder Plumb and stabbed him twice in the back with a sharp instrument believed to be an improvised dagger made from a file.

The injured man lost no time in presenting himself for attention at the gaol hospital, but a couple of hours later he is reported to have lost consciousness and was then removed to the Government Civil Hospital.

That his condition was serious was indicated by the fact that arrangements were made to take the man's depositions during yesterday afternoon.

At 10.30 p.m. it was ascertained that the patient was doing as well as could be expected, but that he was not yet out of danger.

BELGIAN SOCIALIST IN CANTON.

SERIES OF LECTURES ARRANGED.

M. Emile Vandervelde, the Belgian Socialist ex-Minister for Foreign Affairs and President of the Second Internationale, who is at present on a tour of the Far East, arrived in Canton from Hong Kong aboard the s.s. Fatahan on Tuesday.

Before M. Vandervelde and his party arrived, the Canton Government dispatched Mr. Leung Tsai Wai and Mr. Kao Sun Ting to Hong Kong to meet him.

M. Vandervelde, who was accompanied by his wife, received a warm welcome at the wharf from representatives of the Government and educational organisations. They motored to the New Asia Hotel where three rooms were reserved for the distinguished visitors. Later, M. Vandervelde called upon the acting Chairman of the Kwangtung Provincial Government, Mr. Hau Ching, when he and his party were entertained at a tea party.

M. Vandervelde will give a series of lectures in Canton on the Socialist movement and Madame Vandervelde will also address the students of the Kwangtung Provincial Girls' Normal School.

"FAKE" HIGHWAY ROBBERY.

FURTHER ARRESTS.

In connection with the false report of a highway robbery in Hillier Street on July 31 last when a bank messenger was supposed to have been robbed of $10,000, two further arrests have been made.

It will be recalled that the messenger was sentenced to one year's imprisonment for conspiracy to steal and for receiving money which had been stolen.

Regarding the fresh arrests, Ma Sui Sang was charged before Mr. E. W. Williams yesterday with conspiracy to steal and also with misappropriation of $10,000 belonging to the Ng Chow Bank of 30, Bonham Strand. The second man, Ma Siu Li, was alleged to have conspired with others to steal and also have received stolen property.

Both defendants pleaded guilty, whereupon Det.-Insp. Shannon asked for a remand, stating that the defendants were not to be released in the country and they could send a messenger for the amounts which (Continued at foot of next column.)

WOUNDING CHARGE.

PRISONERS' STATEMENTS IN WITNESS-BOX.

DEFENCE ALLEGE PERJURY.

Allegations that a witness in the case had given false evidence to get them into trouble were made by the three accused at the Criminal Sessions yesterday, on the second day of the trial, when they made statements from the witness-box. They are charged with wounding three other Shanghai men in Pilkon Street on August 7.

The first accused was among those wounded in the affray and taken to the Kowloon Hospital. It was alleged that the second and third accused also participated in the fight but had escaped by the time the Indian constable appeared on the scene.

Giving evidence of the arrest of the two men, Sergeant Fitches said that on the afternoon of August 8, three men were seen near the Yau-nati Police Station along with two women. They said that they wanted to bail out the first accused, who was then in hospital, so he took them inside the Station and asked for their names. As his suspicions were aroused, and the men refused to give their names, he gave orders for the two men to be stripped. He found abrasions on two of the men (second and third accused) and they were then charged.

Mr. E. P. White, of the Hong Kong Hotel Garage, was called as a witness on behalf of the first accused. Witness gave details of service of Cheung Shuen Hing, one of the complainants, and Lok Shan, the first accused. He said both men were employed as painters. Cheung left on August 1 and did not return. The first accused left on August 5 after asking for two hours' leave owing to the alleged illness of his wife, but he never returned.

Alleged Conspiracy.
Giving evidence from the witness-box, the first accused said that on the evening of August 7 he was in Jordan Road on his way to borrow some money from a friend on account of his wife's illness when he was assaulted by six men and dragged to Pilkon Street. He alleged that the assault was made in order to pay off a grudge.

The second accused denied that he was present at the affray. He said that he worked in his employer's garage in Hong Kong on the night of August 7. The next day he heard from two women relatives that they had received information that his brother (first accused) had been assaulted and taken to hospital. He then called the two women, his employer and the third accused and visited the hospital, where he saw his brother in the prisoner's ward. From there they went to the Yau-nati Police Station to bail out his brother. He and the third accused were put under arrest following, the prisoner alleged, a false accusation made by the complainants who were brought in later by the police. Accused denied that he had any abrasions on his hands.

The third accused, in his statement, alleged that Wong Shuen Cheong, the master of the Pilkon Street shop and one of the complainants, had an old grudge against him, and went on to relate an incident which occurred in 1929. Accused denied that he was in Pilkon Street on the evening in question and corroborated the evidence of the other man regarding the visit to the hospital and his subsequent arrest at the station.

An adjournment was made until 10.30 this morning, when the third accused will be cross-examined by the prosecution.

THE STANDARD OF LIVING.

[TO THE EDITOR OF THE "HONG KONG DAILY PRESS."]

SIR,—If His Excellency the Governor thinks the standard of living in Hong Kong is too luxurious, he would be doing the public a really good turn if, from his seat of Government, he definitely denounced such extravagant customs as he has encountered during his short stay in Hong Kong. The public would then, in all probability, be ashamed to sustain such customs.

It seems rather an anomaly that, while Government servants are granted a "high cost of living" allowance, the public should be told, when asking for a little alleviation from taxation, that it is not the cost but the standard of living that is high.—Yours, etc.,

HONG KONG, October 22.

BOOSTING THE NAVY.

[TO THE EDITOR OF THE "HONG KONG DAILY PRESS."]

SIR,—I suppose 95 per cent. of the great audience at the Lee Theatre last night knew something about the British Navy before they saw the Navy League film. It is to be hoped so, for anyone wholly ignorant of the Senior Service, and getting his first impressions of it from that picture, would form a very poor opinion of it.

The film was about the poorest specimen of photography ever shown on the screen in Hong Kong. Surely there is somebody in the Navy capable of taking first-class cinema pictures. Those shown on Tuesday were like the first efforts of a youngster with a pocket camera.

I feel that our local branch of the Navy League should take this matter up with headquarters, and if nothing better than what was shown last night is available, then out out this feature (one cannot truthfully call it an attraction) from future programmes.

The pictures were poor in the selection and the handling of subject; they were poor in photographic quality; they were disjointed, uninteresting, and to a great extent uninformative.

The Navy League had better get somebody from Hollywood to "come over and help us" if this is the best they can do.—Yours, etc.,

ANDREW.

KOWLOON UNION CHURCH PULPIT.

[TO THE EDITOR OF THE "HONG KONG DAILY PRESS."]

SIR,—With reference to the report on a special meeting of members, subscribers and adherents of Kowloon Union Church, which you published in your issue of Saturday, the 18th inst., I shall be obliged if you will kindly publish in your next issue a letter from the Rev. Frank Short, of which the enclosed is a copy.—Yours, etc.,

D. GOW,

Hon. Secretary,

Union Church.

Kowloon, October 22.

[ENCLOSURE.]

Dear Mr. Gow,—I read with great interest and care the report in the South China Morning Post of the special meeting of the members and adherents of the Kowloon Union Church, and I have ascertained that it is a satisfactory report of the meeting.

In such discussions as I have had with you and other members of the Committee I indicated that only if there were a large measure of unanimity could I give any serious consideration to an invitation to the pastorate of Union Church.

I feel that it would be better to inform you at once that, as there is very clearly a division on the question at issue, I do not think that any useful purpose would be served by taking any further steps in the matter.

But I would like to assure you that during any interregnum I will gladly render such service as is in my power.

I pray that the Church, in its quest for a minister, may be guided from on High.

REFUSED TO BE SEARCHED.

INCIDENT AT MONGKOK FERRY WHARF.

"You are not very great, and you are only a servant of the Crown." Such was the remark alleged to have been made by a Chinese woman when she refused to be searched by a woman searcher at Mongkok Ferry Wharf. She was charged at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday.

Defendant, who described herself as the wife of a Mr. Fisher, who, she said, was the son of the late Chief Sanitary Inspector Fisher, stated that she had some valuable paper in her basket. She told the searcher to be careful because if one of the papers was blown away she would lose money.

The searcher told his Worship that when she searched the defendant in course of her duty at Mongkok Ferry Wharf, defendant became very excited and made the above remark.

His Worship convicted and cautioned the defendant, telling her that she should not refuse to be searched when called upon to do so.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Watkins left this letter to the congregation.—Yours, etc.,

THE KIDNAPPING INCIDENT.

NO FURTHER NEWS OF MISSING JOURNALIST.

In connection with the kidnapping outrage on Sunday night in the outskirts of Canton, the family of Mr. B. F. Wong has received no letter either from him or his captors.

A village elder, residing near the scene of the outrage told a Prens representative that the Saichuen road, where the kidnapping occurred, is very deserted after sunset, and there are no police on duty there at night. He added that the people residing in that locality are law-abiding peasants, and he was of opinion that the outrage must have been committed by the outlaws living in the Tsor Tau or Tong Kai Villages.

Other villagers declared they heard no alarm raised by the captive on Sunday evening, or they would have gone to his assistance.

Carried Away on the River?

One villager said he saw a man, bound with rope and with his head wrapped round with cloth, carried down to a boat from the Sha Pui village, but he could not say whether this man was Mr. Wong.

Canton police authorities are taking energetic action to trace the kidnappers and effect the release of Mr. Wong, but so far no definite clue has been found which can be followed.

Saichuen is only about four miles from Canton, and the city police are making every effort to comb the district in search of information likely to be useful in tracing the kidnappers.

Five of the elders from the village of Saichuen are being detained by the Canton police for examination, although they all deny any knowledge of the incident.

No communication has been received by Mrs. Wong from her husband's captors demanding any ransom, although some such letter was anticipated.

PRETTY WEDDING AT CATHEDRAL.

LOCAL CLERGYMAN MARRIED.

There was a large gathering at St. John's Cathedral yesterday when Miss Hazel Maude Somerville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Somerville, of Wellington, New Zealand, was married to the Rev. Laurence Neville Watkins, of St. Peter's Church.

The bride, who was given away by Professor L. Forster, was attired in a dress, the bodice and tight sleeves, being of guipure lace, with a parchment satin skirt, and gold and silver brocade shoes. She wore a veil of Brussels lace, and carried a bouquet of pale pink gladioli.

The bridesmaid, Miss Patey Hynes, was dressed in shell pink georgette, and the flower girls, the Misses Maureen and June Becker, wore pale green georgette.

The duties of "best man" were performed by W. Bailey Waishaw. The Very Rev. Dean A. Swann, assisted by the Rev. H. V. Koop, officiated, and the hymns were:

"Lead us, heavenly Father,

Lead us

"O Thou who gavest power

to love

"God be in my head, and in my understanding

Sevenfold Amen

"Praise to the Lord, the

Almighty, the King of

The Reception.

After the ceremony, a reception was held in the Cathedral Hall, and was largely attended. Professor Forster, in toasting the health of the happy couple, said that Mr. Watkins had been in the Colony for about a year and had been very popular with the clergy. Miss Somerville came to the Colony from New Zealand about ten days ago and had already become very popular here.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Watkins left

Manila, the honeymoon being spent in Baguio. The bride's going-away dress was a rose and blue frock with coat and hat to match.

NAVY LEAGUE NONSENSE.

AFTER-DINNER speeches are not always to be taken seriously. A certain amount of latitude is usually expected by speakers and allowed by listeners on such occasions. There are times, however, when those entrusted with the duty of publicly proposing or responding to toasts should be very careful as to what they say, and how they say it. Sir THOMAS WALFORD, High Commissioner for New Zealand, who attended the annual dinner of the Navy League in London, evidently has very decided views about the importance of the Singapore naval base. He is fully entitled to those views, and on such an occasion it was quite appropriate that he should give expression to them. But Sir Thomas could surely have spoken on this delicate subject without being so offensive to a Power with which Great Britain only a few weeks ago concluded a very important Agreement relating to naval armaments.

The New Zealand Commissioner said his fellow-countrymen regard the Singapore naval base as the vital junction in the East. They look upon Singapore as guaranteeing their safety in the Pacific, and if the plans for establishing a great naval base there are not proceeded with, "We New Zealanders will consider we have been abandoned."

Abandoned to what? Reuter's brief cable summary of the speech supplies the answer. "If Britain does not want Singapore, Japan does!" This is hard enough, but Sir Thomas went one better—or worse—by declaring that the plateau overlooking the naval base is already actually in the occupation of Japanese.

How thankful he must be they are only capitalists, and not Communists! The fact that Japanese companies have acquired land in various parts of Malaya for rubber and copra is well-known, but Sir THOMAS WALFORD's remark carried with it an implication that the owners of the land were not solely concerned with coconuts and rubber trees. One is reminded of those ridiculous stories told about German commercial firms whose offices in England were said to conceal massive concrete foundations for mounting heavy artillery for the bombardment of London!

It is most unfortunate that men holding important public positions should in these allegedly enlightened days talk publicly upon international questions as though there was no such thing in existence as a League Covenant or a Kellogg Pact. Is it to be assumed that they really regard these and other agreements solemnly entered into between nations for the prevention of war as being of no value whatever? If so, it would be more honest to say so, boldly and bluntly. There has been quite enough international ill-feeling already created over the Singapore scheme without starting a renewed controversy on the subject. Moreover, references to a friendly nation such as those made at the Navy League dinner are especially regrettable because of the cynical inference that all the work of the last twelve years, aimed at bringing nations into more friendly relations with one another, has been wasted effort. There is, in Japan, strong opposition to the Big Navy party, which exists there as in other countries. Such a speech as that delivered by Sir THOMAS WALFORD simply makes it more difficult for sane and sober Japanese opinion to hold their militarists in check.

PADDINGTON POLITICS.

So the rival Press Barons are to fight after all at South Paddington. Reuter gives us the names of the four candidates who will contest the seat—one Labour, one Conservative, one an "Empire Crusader," and one a "United Empire" advocate. A few weeks ago the Crusaders tried to foist one of their number on the local Conservative Association to stand as the Conservative official candidate, and to fight the "United Empire" claimant for non-Labour support. The South Paddington Conservative Association declined to do so. Lord BEAVERBROOK wished, and instead declared their determination to put up a candidate who would be representative of Mr. BALDWIN, the Conservative leader, and not of one of either of the rival groups within that party which are both seeking to bring about their leader's downfall.

It will be very interesting to watch this fight between an Empire Crusader and a United Empire party champion. The Empire Crusaders are Lord BEAVERBROOK's lot and the United Empire party Lord ROTHEMERE's. What interests Conservatives and many others in connection with this contest is the obvious estrangement between the ROTHEMERES and BEAVERBROOKS groups. There can be no terms between Lord ROTHEMERE and the official Conservative party, but Lord BEAVERBROOK does not quite despair of capturing the Conservative party, and the Conservative party would rather like to capture him.

Admiral TAYLOR, the Crusaders' nominee, has twice been an official Conservative candidate, and failed to win for the party Woolwich and Finsbury. He commanded H.M.S. Renown on two of the PRINCE OF WALES's voyages, the one to Canada and the other to Australia and New Zealand. Sir HERBERT LIDARD, who has been adopted by the Conservative Association as the official party candidate, is an orthodox Baldwinian Conservative. He is a local man, and has been three Mayor of Paddington. The interest in this by-election is what showing the United Empire candidate will make and whether she will do better than, or as well as, the party's candidate at Bromley. Let it be noted, by the way, that before he was adopted Sir HERBERT LIDARD made an enthusiastic declaration for Empire Protection, and promised to support food taxes, even if the officials of his party were against them. Conservatives apparently imagine that food taxes will be a "selling line" at the general election.

Sir John Simon, who had been on a month's tour of Canada and America with members of the British Bar Association was high in his praise of American building methods. "The New York style of architecture," he said, "contemptuously spoken of as the skyscraper, has been developed into a most beautiful mode of construction. Those immensely tall buildings, the skyscrapers, look like the beautiful hills round Rio de Janeiro. I wonder when London will start to build vertically instead of horizontally."

The m.v. Taybank, sistership of the Looibank, arrived in the Colony yesterday from New York, via San Francisco and Manila, taking 44 days for the voyage. She carried a large cargo of bullion for this port.

The draws for the Subscription Grifflins which was advertised to take place at the Hong Kong Jockey Club, Causeway Bay, yesterday, has been postponed till October 27 at 5 p.m. It was stated by an official that the reason for the postponement was that the ponies were not ready.

"Children's Day" at the Filipino Club this year will be held on the Club's ground on Sunday, October 26. An interesting programme has been arranged including a race for members of the Club and a ladies' nomination race. A happy time for the youngsters is promised and at the end of the day's sports, V. N. Aizawa, wife of the President of the Club, will distribute the prizes.

A gang of workmen who are excavating for a new road on the Salve Mountain overlooking Geneva, recently discovered at the depth of a few feet the skeleton of a woman with a steel dagger firmly wedged between the ribs. Scattered beside the body were a number of Swiss gold coins bearing the date 1710, and also some valuable pearls, which, it is thought, once formed the dead woman's necklace. The opinion was expressed at the inquest that the woman died at about the date marked on the coins. The verdict solemnly added that there was nothing to show whether it was murder or suicide that was committed on the mountainside a couple of centuries ago.

The Straits Times has been officially informed that there is no foundation for the rumour which has been published to the effect that Sir Cecil Clementi (who has just left on leave) would not return to Malaya, but would succeed Sir Miles Lampson as British Minister to China.

A crab's 100 mile crawl under the sea in four years is recorded in a Blue Book, issued by the Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries on the marine wanderings of crabs and lobsters. The hero of this historic crawl was a sturdy native of the territorial waters of Aberdeenshire. It was thrown into the sea, with a distinguishing mark on its back, at a point between Arbroath and Montrose, and was recaptured after four years and one month, near Banff, a distance of about 100 miles. Other crab-marking experiments showed that crabs of 50, 60 and 70 miles from home were common among the natives of Aberdeenshire and Kincardineshire, but that the crabs of Northumberland and Yorkshire were more stay-at-home.

Further mechanisation of the Royal Artillery of the Territorial Army is to take place, it was stated recently. Mechanisation of all medium brigades and Army field brigades has been completed, and it has now been decided that the divisional field brigades will be organised on a completely mechanised basis by 1933. At present practically all the vehicles are hired when required by the Territorial Army Associations, but under the new organisation the draught vehicles of all field and medium brigades will be provided by the War Department. The draught vehicles will be six wheelers, and normally one such vehicle will be issued to each battery, but in certain large towns a special scale will be applied.

While walking in a wood outside Potsdam, a man found another man hanging from a tree with his braces round his neck, and released him and ran for assistance. When he returned ten minutes later with a helper they found the would-be suicide had again hanged himself. He was again cut down, and as he still gave signs of life one ran for a doctor and the other for the police. When they returned once more after another ten minutes the man was again hanging from the tree, and this time was found to be dead.

A one-legged fish hawk is likely to set a legal precedent in England. He applied to the Cornwall (West) Public Assistance Committee at Falmouth for a wooden leg to enable him to set up in business as a fish hawk with a barrow. He said he had been on relief for some time. A sub-committee had advised giving him an artificial leg subject to the approval of the committee and the Ministry of Health. The committee, however, considered they were strictly not expected to provide such a thing, and referred the matter to Cornwall Public Assistance Committee for a general ruling on such an application, as the decision would have a national effect on one-legged men.

Playing on miniature golf courses in the early hours of the morning is not golf—but disorderly conduct, in the opinion of Judge John H. Lyle of Chicago. The judge fined Leo Harrington $40 and costs for permitting persons to play on his putting course during the hours when neighbours were trying to sleep.

Dr. Aaron Sussman, a dentist, won a verdict of $4,000 damages for the loss of a finger from a jury in the Supreme Court, Jersey City, in his action against the Yellow Taxicab Company, of Bayonne. A verdict for $400, which he won a year ago, had been set aside as inadequate. The index finger of Dr. Sussman's right hand was crushed on January 7, 1927, when the driver of a taxicab slammed the cab door carelessly. The member had to be amputated. Dr. Sussman brought an action for $4,000, saying that he was permanently incapacitated in his profession.

A twenty-year-old debt was graciously repaid at Daly's Theatre London last month. Mrs. George Edwards, the widow of the celebrated theatre manager, visited the theatre for the first time in seven years with her children and grandchildren. Not a single seat was available, but a man who had a party in the royal box, hearing of the management's dilemma, offered to surrender the box to Mrs. Edwards and come another evening. "Nearly twenty years ago," he said, "I went to George Edwards when I was at the end of my career. He could not give me a job, but he gave me a five. That $5 meant a lot to me then, and I am glad to have the opportunity of making some return for that timely assistance."

"I shall give the consent of the court to this application to marry," said Mr. Campion, the Tower Bridge magistrate, recently, when a girl of nineteen applied for the consent of the court to her marriage. "It is important," said Mr. Campion, "that parental control and discretion should be maintained in this country, but the fact that it was found necessary to give powers to magistrates showed that if that control was not exercised wisely and with due regard to the interests of the State, it was necessary to give that discretionary power to others. Here is a young woman just on twenty years of age, who has been engaged to a man of twenty-five, in good work and of good character, kept from marrying because her father—her only surviving parent—thinks that she might wait a little longer, to look after him."

Herr Ernst Henno, the German motor-cyclist, whose world record for the mile was recently broken by J. S. Wright at Arpaion, has at the Ingoldstadt motor road, near Munich, again broken the world's record for a mile. He also captured the records for the mile and kilometre in the 500 c.c. class.

Bavarians were amazed recently when they saw Mr. Henry Ford, the motor magnate, hard at work in Steppacher's Motor Service Station in Munich, busily exploring the interior of an 1800 motor-car. For the greater part of the day Mr. Ford was deeply engrossed in his task. He had all the necessary tools close at hand, and toiled away like a mechanic, while visitors to the station gazed open-mouthed at the millionaire. Meanwhile thousands of Germans were imploring him by letter and telegram to spare them a few minutes while he is in Germany. Mr. Ford, according to a German news agency report, has just purchased a sports roadster from the Bavarian Motor Works.

"I was on my honeymoon, and was so excited that I forgot about the licence," said Mr. Pritchard, when he was summoned at Eastbourne Police Court last month for not having a Road Fund licence on his car. The chief constable said that he also forgot his driving licence. A solicitor representing Mr. Pritchard said that on the same day he was stopped at Boxhill, and had been fined for not having a Road Fund licence. The prosecution now withdrew the summons.

A "tip" to a page boy in a London hotel was a three-weeks' trip to the United States. He was in attendance on a wealthy American family at the hotel, and when the visitors were going the page was asked if he would like to see New York. He said he would. He was "tipped" a first-class trip of three weeks as the guest of the Americans. A London hotel manager said:—"We can never discover what the page boys get in tips. They do not talk about it except among themselves, but they must do well." A typical Cockney page who was asked: "How much do you make in tips?" replied: "Not so much as the head waiter, but mine is a good job in the summer."

A constable in the Rochester City Police Force, was accused at Rochester Police Court last month of stealing a motor-car, the property of Mr. John Robinson, of Hillside-avenue, Strood. Police Inspector T. J. Willis stated that while on duty in Corporation-street, Rochester, he saw accused driving a car which, in his opinion, answered the description of one reported to have been stolen. He questioned accused, who declared: "It is my car. I can prove it." He made no reply when formally charged.

LATER. Father Vonnax is reported to have been killed.

The captives include Father Thieffry (French), Father Barhato, Father Capozzi and Father Perino (Italians).

The nuns are stated to be one Italian, one Filipino and four French, but as the Communists are demanding ransom for five foreign nuns instead of six, it is possible that one may have been taken for a Chinese by the captors.

The names of four of the nuns are: Lamichant, Merle, Ramos and Rognomi.

The American Consul at Hankow is making representations with the authorities to obtain the release of the Filipino nun.

Communist Leaders on Scene.

Bishop Mignani and the priest who brought the letter containing the Reds' terms state that there was considerable looting at Kianfu on the 14th inst., but there was no considerable destruction of property.

peity. The Communist leaders, Chu, Mao and Peng, were personally there. After leaving Kianfu, the Bishop and priest had to proceed to Kianfu via Changsha, and were arrested several times en route by Red bands, but were allowed to proceed on producing papers from the Red leaders, thus showing co-operation between the different Red armies.

Mission Buildings Not Yet Destroyed.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 22. It is learned that five foreign Sisters of Charity, who kept a "Bolshevik" hospital four miles outside of Kianfu, and five Chinese nuns were made prisoner and detained in Kianfu City.

Hitherto no mission buildings have been destroyed, but inflammable materials are ready in the most imposing seminary premises.

Swiss Father Reported Executed.

It appears that Father Vonnax, a Swiss, aged 51 years, is reported to have been executed at Pengze City, on the south bank of the Yangtze River, 70 miles below Kianfu.

Pengze was recently captured by the Reds.

"Soldiers Do Not Fight Soldiers."

Reliable reports state that the National troops refuse to fight against the Communists, and that the National troops are posting up proclamations declaring that "Soldiers do not fight soldiers!"

BRITISH YOUTH DETAINED AT CHITA.

INEXPLICABLE DELAY IN PROCURING RELEASE.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

PEIPING, Oct. 22. Mr. Christopher Jowett, the eighteen-year-old nephew of the Right Hon. F. W. Jowett, arrived here this morning.

Interviewed by Reuter, Mr. Jowett emphasised that he suffered no actual ill-treatment, but only discomforts, due to the present shortage of food and other inconveniences of the present-day Russia.

A feature of the case was the long delay in effecting his release. When he was arrested and taken back by an armed guard to Chita, the police stated that he would be released within five days, yet it was 21 days before he left Chita.

Mr. Jowett on his first night in Chita was put into a bare room with six or seven troopers. He afterwards rented a small room in a State-owned house, which was bare and not free from vermin. He had food tickets, but he found the food scarce. He lived mainly on black bread, tea and cabbage. Attempts were made to send him money, but none was received till the day he was leaving. Hence even when food was available he could not afford much, but seldom meat or fish was available.

Documents reached the frontier on the 6th inst., but the Chita authorities then would not allow him to depart without a Russian visa. Hence there was a further ten days' delay.

UNEMPLOYMENT IN ONTARIO.

TENSE SITUATION AT PORT ARTHUR.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

Port Arthur (Ontario), Oct. 22.

A handful of mounted police summoned reinforcements to cope with a tense situation arising from unemployment.

Communists stirred up the passions of the workless, who attacked the Chief of Police and a sergeant and released a prisoner whom they were taking to the gaol. Meetings demanded employment or relief grants, and threatening otherwise to loot the shops.

HARD WINTER AHEAD IN U.S.A.

UNEMPLOYMENT PROBLEM ALARMS GOVERNMENT.

[REUTER'S AMERICAN SERVICE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21. In view of all the indications of a hard winter ahead, the Government is drawing serious attention to the plight of the unemployed and will ask Congress to permit public works to be provided for a period of years.

Aliens Surrendering for Deportation.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 22. As the result of the severe unemployment in the United States (which official circles admit reaches a total of 3,500,000, while some official observers place it at 5,000,000) unrepresented numbers of aliens are giving themselves up for deportation.

The authorities are unable to handle the rush, and owing to lack of funds the Immigration Department is only sending out the most undesirable foreigners from the country.

BRITAIN'S EDUCATION BILL.

SCHOOL AGE EXTENDED ONE YEAR.

[REUTER'S AMERICAN SERVICE.]

Rugby, Oct. 21. The Education Minister, Sir Charles Trevelyan, informed a deputation to-day that the Government hoped that the new Education Bill will be carried this year.

Regarding the extension of the school age by one year to 15, for which the Bill provides, Sir Charles said this would serve to free industry, and substitute perhaps 150,000 older people. Parliament, he thought, should be glad to spend on education where it now spends on unemployment benefit.

EMPIRE CONFERENCE.

PROCEEDINGS DEVOTED TO COMMITTEE WORK.

[BRITISH WIRELESS SERVICE.]

Rugby, Oct. 21.

The Imperial Conference proceedings were again devoted to committee work to-day.

Economic Co-Operation.

The Committee on economic co-operation, of which Mr. W. Graham, the President of the Board of Trade, is Chairman, and which has before it the many schemes designed to stimulate inter-Imperial Trade, turned from the question of utilising a quota system for the United Kingdom wheat imports, and discussed the possibility of applying such systems as the quota, bulk purchase, and import boards, to other commodities including butter, canned fruit and fish.

The Committee met both in the morning and the afternoon and hope by frequent meetings to be able by Friday to consider in rough outline their report to the heads of the delegations.

This Committee, while taking into consideration during the discussions the possibility of tariff changes, is now charged to report specifically on the subject of the tariff proposals put forward earlier in the Conference by, among others, the Canadian Premier.

Those proposals are still under examination in the United Kingdom departments of State which have not yet completed their task. Amendments to League Covenant. The Committee on arbitration and disarmament completed to-day their discussion of the proposed amendments to the League Covenant and reached a general agreement on the principle of the amendment and the texts under discussion.

Colonial Laws Validity Act.

The Inter-Imperial Relations Committee, over which the Lord Chancellor, Lord Sankey, presides, discussed again the proposed Bill relating to the Colonial Laws Validity Act in the report on the operation of Dominion Legislation.

Appeals to Privy Council.

There was also an exchange of views regarding appeals to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council. The position on this matter so far as the United Kingdom Government is concerned still accords precisely with that at the last Imperial Conference when, as stated in the summary of those proceedings, it was "no part of the policy of His Majesty's Government in Great Britain that questions affecting judicial appeals should be determined otherwise than in accordance with the wishes of the part of the Empire primarily affected."

The matter is being discussed with a view to future practice and to find whether, in the opinion of the delegates, the existing principle should be retained, modified or abolished.

Premiers Attend Motor Show.

The Prime Minister, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, visited the Motor Show at Olympia to-day, in company with the four Dominion Premiers, Mr. Scullin (Australia), General Hertzog (South Africa), Mr. Forde (New Zealand) and Sir Richard Squires (Newfoundland).

They examined many models carefully and discussed the problems of the industry with Sir William Morris, Sir Herbert Austin and other leading manufacturers. Each expressed himself most impressed with the display generally and particularly with the cars specially designed to meet the requirements of the overseas markets. General Hertzog said: "I received a deep impression of the skill and mastery craftsmanship of British manufacturers, designers and workmen. It is an industry which should receive every encouragement."

BRITAIN'S POLICY IN PALESTINE.

JEWS' BITTER RESENTMENT WORLDWIDE.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, Oct. 22. The bitter resentment of the Jews is worldwide in consequence of the Government statement on Palestine. Lord Melchett, who has resigned his joint Chairmanship of the Council of the Jewish Agency and the Chairmanship of the Political Committee, says that the reckless manner in which the Labour Government has wrecked the loyal support of the Jews throughout the Empire and throughout the world appears incredible.

Boycott of British in Palestine.

PARIS, Oct. 22.

M. Z. Ratopolski, Vice-President of the French Zionist Committee, interviewed, said that a powerful movement would soon start to boycott the British in Palestine, following the practice of Gandhi's followers. He said that if Palestine was closed to the Jews they would establish a home in Syria under the French flag.

The Chief Rabbi of France and a number of Jewish chiefs and others also publish protests, and a series of protest meetings are being organised.

"Greatest Deception in Jewish History."

JERUSALEM, Oct. 22.

The cables summaries of the Government's statement of policy have staggered the Jews.

The Jewish daily newspaper describes the new policy as "the greatest deception in Jewish history."

The Arabs also are disappointed because the mandate and the Jewish declaration remain.

[REUTER'S AMERICAN SERVICE.]

"Cruel and Unfair Betrayal."

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.

Mr. Felix Warburg has resigned the Chairmanship of the Administrative Committee of the Jewish Agency on the ground that the British statement constitutes a "cruel and unfair betrayal."

When the news of the Government's decision was received by the final session of the American Jewish Congress many of the delegates broke into tears and tore up the speeches they had prepared, and the meeting resolved itself into a meeting of protest.

The possibility of a very strong anti-British movement among the Jews in America is envisaged.

FRENCH PRESIDENT IN MOROCCO.

A GOOD WILL TOUR.

CASABLANCA, Oct. 15.—The president of the French republic, M. Doumergue, arrived here yesterday on board a warship, escorted by a large part of the Mediterranean squadron. He was met on the wharf by the youthful Sultan of Morocco and received an ovation from the population, both French and native, which lined the streets.

The president will make a tour of the country. In view of the fact that the next French Budget will allot several milliards of francs to the development of the colony, the tour is expected to give a new impetus to its economic life. At a banquet given by the government to-night, President Doumergue made an important speech on French colonial policy. In characteristic fashion, after having thanked the people of Morocco for assistance to France during the war, the president devoted the whole of his speech to commercial and economic matters. He outlined a programme of development in roads, railways, mines, and agriculture, to be completed in the near future.

"We consider," he said, "that scrupulous respect for beliefs, customs, and traditions is the main duty of our policy. But immediately after comes another duty—democratic duty—and that is to make the country richer and more prosperous. The growth of Morocco has been prodigious. May it help us to learn the lesson of youth and industry."

ECLIPSE OF THE SUN.

FINE WEATHER REWARDS ASTRONOMERS.

[REUTER'S AMERICAN SERVICE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 22. A message from Niunfou states that the weeks of preparations by the astronomical expeditions were rewarded with favourable weather for yesterday's total eclipse of the sun.

The American expedition took 41 successful photographs.

The New Zealand party's observations were also entirely satisfactory. The duration of the total eclipse was 1 min. and 30 seconds.

REICHSBANK EX-PRESIDENT VISITING U.S.

FINANCIAL AND DIPLOMATIC CIRCLES AROUSED.

[REUTER'S AMERICAN SERVICE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.

The visit of Dr. Schacht, ex-President of the Reichsbank, has aroused more than usual interest in financial and diplomatic circles.

Dr. Schacht has seen President Hoover, Mr. Mellon and Mr. Stimson, and a report was immediately circulated that a discussion was held regarding the possibility of Germany declaring a moratorium in reparations.

The report, however, was specifically denied from the White House and the State Department, and the Treasury denied that the Government was considering the possibility of a five years' moratorium in allied debt payments.

Dr. Schacht, addressing the Foreign Policy Association, declared that Hitlerism in Germany was a perfectly constitutional movement, and that the election success of the Nazis was simply a reaction among numerous Germans against the treatment accorded them since the war by their former enemies.

Mistrust in France.

PARIS, Oct. 22.

Dr. Schacht's activities in the United States have aroused mistrust in France, fearing that Dr. Schacht is seeking a revision of the Young Plan.

EXHIBITION OF PERSIAN ART.

LOANS FROM MANY MUSEUMS.

[BRITISH WIRELESS SERVICE.]

RUGBY, Oct. 21.

The international character of the loan exhibition of Persian art to be shown in London next January is indicated by the publication of the list of contributing countries. The royal libraries and museums and shrines of Persia are sending a large number of works of art.

Museums and private collections in France have offered many unique exhibits.

Many loans are being made by museums in Germany, the Netherlands and Sweden.

Brocades and silks are coming from Belgium and Denmark, and famous vases and carpets from Austria.

A great hunting carpet from the museum at Milan will be shown, and other Italian museums are lending bronzes, jewellery, ivories and enamels.

Carpets, velvets and other objects are shown by Spain, Poland, Czechoslovakia and Hungary. The Soviet Government are also among the contributors.

From Egypt, the illuminated manuscripts are being received; and many beautiful examples of stucco relief work and mosaic, are promised by museums and private collections in United States.

Most extensive loans are also being made from British collections.

SPAIN COPING WITH STRIKE TROUBLE.

GOVERNMENT TO UNDERTAKE SWEEPING MEASURES.

MADRID, Oct. 15.—Premier Borjaer has issued a statement to the effect that with the forces at its disposal the government is fully able to cope with the strike movement and that the army is absolutely loyal to the monarchy.

On the other hand, the Premier admits that the continuing effects of the peace exchange value is causing serious misgivings to the government. Inasmuch, however, (Continued at foot of next column.)

ALSDORF MINE EXPLOSION.

PART OF WORKINGS ON FIRE.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

BERLIN, Oct. 21. This afternoon 40 dead have so far been counted in the disaster at the Wilhelm Mine, Alsdorf, near Aix-la-Chapelle, but it is still impossible to give the total of the casualties.

The explosion occurred while the night and morning shifts were changing and destroyed the check office. Hence it is impossible to state the number of men entombed. The explosion was heard for miles, and gigantic flames and black smoke clouds shot up.

Entire machines in the office building, also a 150 feet high tower, containing a pit cage, crumbled in a mass of debris, burying the dead and injured under fragments of falling steel, glass and stone, which injured scores of people hundreds of yards from the mine who were hastening panic-stricken from their houses to the scene.

Many of the entombed men emerged safely. It appears that the explosion did not do much damage underground, and did not interfere with the ventilation.

It is hoped that most of the entombed made their escape through the galleries adjoining the pit.

Latest figures in the Wilhelm Mine disaster are 95 killed and 70 injured.

The fate of many others is uncertain.

Cause of Explosion.

It is now believed that the mine explosion was the result of overheating of 2,000 pounds of blasting dynamite, stored 1,000 feet underground.

There were 687 miners in the galleries, and up to the present over 400 have escaped.

Some of the survivors say that part of the pit is on fire.

One Hundred and Forty Still Entombed.

Up to the present 130 bodies have been recovered from the Alsdorf mine.

It is believed that 140 men are still entombed, but little hope of saving them is entertained.

Dynamite Stores Intact.

The latest figure of the seriously injured in the Alsdorf mine disaster is 95.

The rescuers found the dynamite stores intact.

Indications now suggest that an explosion occurred in the pit itself. Many of the dead were gassed or drowned owing to the ventilating plant being put out of action.

Final Figures.

It is now announced that there are 231 dead in the Alsdorf mine.

The worst effects of the explosion were experienced in the lowest workings 1,500 feet underground, where 80 men were killed.

The members of the Industrial Council who were meeting in a room at the pithead at the time of the explosion were all killed.

SINGAPORE NAVAL BASE.

VITAL JUNCTION IN THE EAST.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, Oct. 21.

Speaking at the annual dinner of the Navy League to-night, Sir Thomas Walford, the High Commissioner for New Zealand, said that if Great Britain does not want Singapore Japan does.

"We regard it as the vital junction in the East," said Sir Thomas Walford, who added that the plateau overlooking the naval base is occupied by Japanese capitalists.

"We look to Singapore as the base of our safety in the Pacific. If the Singapore Base is not continued, we New Zealanders will consider that we have been abandoned."

As this downward movement is, he declares, not justified by the actual state of affairs in the country, sweeping measures are being formulated to check it in the very near future.

Meanwhile, the government's special financial commission has departed in order to start negotiations with the Bank for International Settlements and other prominent European financial institutions concerning an eventual action in support of the Spanish currency.

JAPANESE NAVAL MANOEUVRES.

DAMAGED CRUISER BEING TOWED TO PORT.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

TOKYO, Oct. 21.

One of Japan's modern cruisers has met with a serious accident, according to a message from the naval base at Yokosuka, stating that H.L.M. Abukuma, which was participating in the Grand Naval Manoeuvres off the southern coast, has been in collision with an unknown warship.

The Abukuma was seriously damaged and is being towed to Yokosuka.

No casualties are reported, but the Abukuma will be unable to participate in further manoeuvres or in the Imperial Naval Review which is to be held off Kobe on October 25.

The Abukuma is rated as a second-class cruiser, being only 5,670 tons. She was launched in 1923 and is one of the fastest vessels of the cruiser squadrons, being capable of 33 knots.

LAWN BOWLS OPEN CHAMPIONSHIP.

OMAR BEATEN IN THE SEMI-FINAL.

A THRILLING FINISH.

There was a record gathering of lawn bowlers and others interested in the game at the Civil Service C.C. ground yesterday to witness the semi-final meeting in the Open Singles Championship of the Colony between R. F. Luz (last season's champion) and U. M. Omar (champion in 1928). A thrilling game was provided by the Club de Recreio player winning with his last wood to enter the final.

Luz had a lead of 17-3 and it looked as if he would gain the remaining four shots to win easily. This, however, did not materialise, as his opponent broke his bad spell by taking a couple and then rolling long heads on which Luz could do nothing. The Craigengower player pulled up to within three shots when Luz added three shots to bring his score to 20. Omar made the scores even by taking a four and two.

There was much excitement at this stage as one shot was needed by one or the other to win. Luz got in the shot with his third wood, but Omar sent his last wood closer in to the jack to count the shot. Luz cut out the wood with a brilliant stroke and at the same time carried the jack to count three shots.

QUEEN'S COLLEGE WIN AGAIN.

The Royal Army Service Corps entertained Queen's College in a friendly game at Sookunpoo yesterday, and after being all dismissed for the comparatively small total of 85 runs, Tsui and Nazarin bowled excellently for the schoolboys to get their hosts out when they still wanted six for the half-century mark.

K. Nazarin (22 not out) and A. R. Sulliad (14) saved the College from what at one time threatened to be entire collapse, but the highest scorer for them was "Mr. Extras" who contributed a very useful 28.

With Tsui (6 for 22) and Nazarin (4 for 10) sending down deliveries which were well-nigh unplayable, backed up by some excellent fielding by the College lads, the Military side were all out for a paltry 44 with Fry (13) the only man to get into double figures.

LADY GOLFERS IN CONCLAVE.

SUBSCRIPTIONS RAISED TEMPORARILY.

NEW OFFICERS ELECTED.

Among the business discussed at the annual meeting of the Ladies' Section of the Royal Hong Kong Golf Club held in the Helena May Institute yesterday a proposal to increase the monthly subscription of $3 to $5 for one year met with the approval of the majority of members who attended. It was explained that this step was necessary as funds were required to obtain certain necessities, which, in the opinion of the out-going committee, were urgently needed in the Club House.

Of the various competitions held during the season, Mrs. Lambert won the championship event, Mrs. Whyte-Smith being the runner-up. Other successful competitors were:

Railway Cup, Mrs. Sheldon, Taggart Cup, Mrs. Lisaman, Captain's Cup, Mrs. Sheldon.

Captain's Speech.

In moving the adoption of the reports and accounts Mrs. D. J. Lewis said:-

Ladies:-The report and accounts having been in your hands for several days I will with your permission take them as read. The report does not appear to call for any comment from me. There is one matter in connexion with the accounts, however, to which I desire to draw your attention. In the account as submitted you will observe that the balance of income over expenditure appears as $299.19, consisting of $3.70 in hand and $295.49 in the bank. As a matter of fact, towards the end of the year under review your Committee decided to redecorate the Ladies' Rooms at Deep Water Bay, a decision which I trust will meet with your approval. The work has been completed but the accounts for this redecoration had not been paid at the time when the accounts were audited. These accounts amount to $225.40. They have now been paid, as also have two small accounts amounting to $27.80. The actual balance carried forward is therefore $45.59 as against $92.49 for the previous year.

I greatly regret that because of circumstances beyond my control I have been absent from the Colony for several months and I wish to express my grateful thanks to Mrs. Ferguson for carrying on so ably during my absence and also to the Committee who have so thoroughly supported her.

A Successful Season.

I am very delighted to know that the Ladies' Section has enjoyed a very successful season and that our monthly one-day competitions have been well supported. I would like to thank the generous donors of all prizes.

Our congratulations go out to Mrs. Lambert as the winner of the championship and to Mrs. Whyte-Smith as runner up; to Mrs. Sheldon, winner of the Railway and Captain's Cups; and to Mrs. Lisaman, winner of the Taggart Cup.

Our meeting on March 2 was well-attended and we were fortunate in having Mrs. Southorn to present the prizes. It was also gratifying to have such a large and appreciative attendance at Deep Water Bay on September 23 and I much regret that I was not able to be present.

I thank all the members of the Committee for the work they have done during the year and I think we all owe a great debt of gratitude to Mrs. Evans for her service as our Honorary Secretary. We also have to thank Mr. Bowker for auditing our accounts.

I can only hope that the incoming committee will work in the same union and goodfellowship as the outgoing one and that you will give them your hearty support.

Anonymous Criticisms.

Suggestions which have from time to time been made by the Ladies' Committee have at all times received the sympathetic consideration of the General Committee of the Club and Colonel Matthews has given us a great deal of practical help. After the resolution, which I am about to propose has been accepted I shall endeavour to the best of my ability to answer any questions which may be asked of me; and the report and accounts will be open to discussion.

In this connexion I would like to point out that criticism and particularly constructive criticism is always welcome. I have been informed that whilst I was away several of the Committee, although anonymous criticisms, are not worthy of serious consideration, they can be distressing to conscientious workers.

I now beg to propose that the report and accounts (subject to the explanation which I have given) be adopted.

Mrs. Sommerfelt was appointed as successor to Mrs. D. J. Lewis for the captaincy, and the Committee elected were:-Medames Gilmore, Evans, Dodwell, Cassidy and Stewart.

Votes of thanks to Mrs. Lewis, Mrs. Evans (Hon. Secretary) Mrs. Dodwell (Hon. Treasurer), the outgoing Committee, Mr. A. C. I. Bowker (Hon. Auditor), the Helena May Institute, Col. Matthews and the local Press concluded business of the meeting.

THREE PEOPLE GORED TO DEATH.

MAD BUFFALO IN IPOH.

Right in the heart of Kampar town, Ipoh, on October 16, a buffalo suddenly went mad and, before the beast was shot, gored three people to death.

The buffalo first charged a Malay woman, knocked her down, and, in sight of dozens of horrified spectators, killed her.

The animal then went for a Chinese, who was killed in the same way as the woman.

By this time all pedestrians had bolted for safety. The buffalo next charged a motor-car at the side of the road, overturned it and killed the driver.

A number of policemen quickly arrived and one of them shot the animal with a rifle.

LATE CHURCH GOERS BARRED.

DRASTIC THREAT BY DR. FOSDICK.

Church-goers who come late may find themselves barred from the magnificent new Riverside Church, New York, built by Mr. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., for the Rev. Harry Emerson Fosdick, modernist leader and the most eloquent preacher in America.

The church, which is larger than many European cathedrals, will be opened next month, and Dr. Fosdick states that its ministers are considering regulations against late-comers as stringent as the policies of the New York and Philadelphia orchestral conductors, Toscanini and Stokowski, who refuse late-comers admission before the symphony has finished.

"I do not want to preach to people who come straggling in just before the sermon," states Dr. Fosdick in a pastoral letter on the subject. "Late-comers ruin the whole spirit of the service. It might have a wholesome effect for our church to say that people who do not care enough for worship to come on time may not come at all."

Another habit of Protestant congregations which Dr. Fosdick censures is "going to church as they go to a lecture." Worship, rather than sermons, will be the leading feature of Riverside Church, and people will be urged to use it for prayer at any hour of the day or night.

"Our characteristic Protestant tradition," asserts this famous preacher, "has relied too exclusively on talking. It has often reduced worship to a few exercises of devotion appended to a sermon."

The annoyance caused by late-comers is particularly acute in New York theatres, concert-halls and churches, as the traffic delays, through congestion, are much greater than in London.

THE FLIGHTY ATOM.

YOUNG SCIENTIST SETS A POSER.

SIR OLIVER LODGE BAFFLED.

A mysterious new theory of the electron and proton—the "bodies" charged with negative and positive electricity which make up the atom—was expounded before the grey-boards of the British Association last month.

The speaker was a young Cambridge scientist of 28, Dr. P. A. M. Dirac. No one professed to understand it. The chairman, Dr. F. E. Smith, of the Royal Society, confessed himself baffled.

"Dr. Dirac's paper," declared Dr. Smith, "reminds me of one read before the Royal Society. No one understood it, but it seemed so good that we had it printed."

Dr. Dirac drew various diagrams on the blackboard, talked fluently about protons behaving in an unexpectedly jazy manner in space, and appeared to think he had made everything quite clear. But white-haired scientists shook their heads in dismay. One member of the audience declared that Dr. Dirac was the only physicist who had never made a mistake, but did nothing to explain the implications of the theory.

Fascinated, But

Sir Oliver Lodge, white-haired and venerable, hastened to compliment the lecturer, but did not claim to understand fully what he was driving at.

"Dr. Dirac," he said, "has developed a theory which, so far as I understand it at present, commends itself greatly to me. It is quite new to me, and I am fascinated by it. I think it should, when developed, lead us on the way we want to go."

The main point made by Dr. Dirac appeared to be that certain particles charged with negative energy travelled in the opposite direction to the forces acting on them—that is to say, in the direction they might have been expected to travel if positively charged.

The implications drawn by Dr. Dirac from this phenomenon puzzled his audience. When I asked him to put this theory into simpler language, he said that he could not simplify it any further without becoming inaccurate.

A Feathered Airship.

One of the most interesting discussions of the day was on the trend of airship construction, in which Herr W. E. Doerr, designer of the Zeppelin Company, took part. He (Continued in next column.)

JUROR'S TIME AT COURT.

PROTEST DURING AN OLD BAILEY CASE.

A jurymen who had been at the Old Bailey three weeks protested recently during the cross-examination of a witness in the case in which Neil McNeil Walker, aged thirty-one, the music hall artist known as Neil McKay, and Gerald Norman Corbett, aged thirty-nine, a motor dealer, are accused of conspiring together to incite Miss Ivy Braham, aged nineteen, a dancer, to procure an illegal operation.

Mr. St. John Hutchinson was cross-examining Miss Braham on points of character when one of the jurymen demurred, and the Recorder observed that counsel was entitled to make suggestions, but it did not mean that what was suggested took place.

The jurymen: What has it to do with the case?

The Recorder: Everything. You must be patient. It is your duty.

The jurymen: I have been here three weeks, my lord.

Discontent.

The Recorder (sternly): If you will not listen to the evidence I am quite willing to discharge you and reopen the case with a fresh jury. I am going to see that justice is done, and I am not going to have this kind of comment on the part of anybody.

The case then proceeded. The Recorder referred to the incident later, and said, "I understand that there is a certain amount of discontent over your being kept here a long time. I will make arrangements that when this case is over you shall be released from these sessions. You have been here a long time, and I am quite sure you do not mean to be impatient, but it is necessary sometimes to attack a witness' character."

A jurymen: I think my friend thought that counsel was asking unnecessary questions.

The Recorder: I do not think he was.

A woman juror: I do not mind. The Recorder: My business is to protect people.

The hearing was adjourned.

claimed that the gaseous fuel used in the Graf Zeppelin had an advantage over any other form. It was of the same density as air. As it was consumed air took its place, and so maintained the equilibrium of the ship.

Lieut.-Col. V. C. Richmond, of the Airship Station, Cardington, declared that in future wars airships would fly to battle carrying guns and aeroplanes.

It was possible that in future the outer covers of airships would be covered with scales or feathers to lessen wind resistance.

FEAST OF THE KINGSHIP OF CHRIST.

NEXT SUNDAY'S OBSERVANCE.

On Sunday, October 26, the Feast of the Kingship of Christ will be celebrated in the Catholic Cathedral, Caine Road. There will be Pontifical High Mass in the morning at 8 a.m., and in the evening, beginning at 4 p.m. Rosary, Procession of the Blessed Sacrament with Benediction in the open, sermon on the Feast of the day, preached by the Rev. Fr. Gallagher, S.J., followed by solemn benediction in the Cathedral.

The Feast of the Kingship of Christ was established a few years ago by Pope Pius XI., to recall to the minds of men that, no matter what kingdoms may come and go, there is One King "of whose Kingdom there shall be no end." To save the world from itself there is one King whose reign is necessary.

The appeal of the Holy Father may be summarised in this way:—

"It has been tried by natural means, by natural ideals, but tried in vain, to solve the world's problems by organisations, conferences, formulas and compromises. These ways have failed because the roots of the world's unrest lie far deeper. If we wish to succeed, we must get right down to the heart, to the soul of man. We must put before those hearts an ideal, not merely to guide and strengthen them in the ordering of their own individual lives, but to direct them in the great questions which are agitating the world. That great ideal is Christ. We must get back to Christ. Let us, therefore, openly hail Him as our King. Let us be led by His principles, animated with His spirit. Christ must, the Holy Father tells us, reign in each human heart, in each human family, in the nations and in the world. With His Kingdom thus established there will be room for conferences, but until Christ holds sway there can be no hope of a lasting peace."

"Sunday's Feast will be the public acknowledgment of the Sovereignty of Christ. Let us, however, not be content with a great public manifestation of our loyalty, but by consecrating our individual selves and our families to Him, by our efforts to make His Kingdom still greater and more glorious, let us, motivated by His idealism stirred by His example, give a continued and practical manifestation of what He means to us—the subject of Christ the King."

CAPTAIN COOK DISCOVERY.

SEA CHEST OF HIS WORLD TRIP.

MINIATURES ON LEATHER.

The camera, which, by means of panchromatic photography, has revealed details unnoticed by the human eye, may be the means of bringing a fortune to Mr. D. W. Sumner, who keeps a small sweet-shop in Clifton Road, Aston, Birmingham.

Mr. Sumner came into possession, about six months ago, of an old leather-bound chest, reputed to be the sea chest which Capt. James Cook took with him on his momentous voyages a century and a half ago, when he circum-navigated the globe.

The chest, which was presented to Capt. Joseph Billcliffe, of Uffley, Lincolnshire, by Capt. Cook's widow, was traced as having been passed to the late Mr. W. H. Elliot, then to a Mr. William Alcock, through Mr. John Stafford, of Market Rasen, and again to Mr. Henry Osborne, and finally to Mrs. Clayforth, of Birmingham.

23,000 Offer.

In 1928 the authorities of the Sydney Museum, Australia, offered £3,000 for the chest, provided its claim to be Captain Cook's chest could be authenticated. At its authenticity was merely a matter of word of mouth—the chest had been handed from one generation to another—the offer fell through.

The chest was then sent to the auction room of a London antique dealer, but because of the lack of definite proof, failed to reach its reserve. Eventually Mr. Sumner, who had heard of the chest's history, purchased it for a few pounds.

While unpacking it he fancied that, looking from certain angles, he could discern miniature paintings on the leather top. He had the top and sides of the chest photographed on panchromatic plates, which are specially sensitive to colours. The photographs revealed that hundreds of miniatures had been painted all over the chest.

When Cook made his historic voyages he took two artists with him, William Hodges, a landscape artist, accompanied him on his second voyage, and S. Webber, another artist, was with him on his third voyage, and it is assumed that they were responsible for the paintings.

Tahiti Native.

Among the pictures revealed by the camera to be painted on the chest is one of Capt. Cook; signed "S.W." There is also the name and portrait of Omai, a native of Tahiti, whom Cook brought to England and later returned to his native country.

JAZZ QUITS THE DANCE HALLS.

LONG DRESSES CREATE A NEW VOGUE.

Long skirts have ousted jazz from the dance-halls. Dancing teachers all over England have been worried and alarmed by the general slump in their profession. Pupils have fallen off by fifty per cent. during the past year.

"We have realised that the dancing public are jazz-weary at last," said Major C. H. Taylor, president of the Imperial Society of Dancing Teachers. "Where they once demanded noise and acrobatics, they now insist on grace and melody. Jazz and the contortions of the Charleston and the Black Bottom required the short skirt. Their vogue has gone with the arrival of longer skirts."

Grace and Real Music.

"Jazz is out of fashion, and grace and real music have returned to the dance floor."

"To satisfy this new demand we have created the Yelva, a beautiful dance which combines grace with simplicity and what I call sanity. It has four movements, each of four bars, and can be danced to what is known as the mid-way fox-trot tempo."

"The first movement consists of four simple slow walking steps, with one turn of the ordinary waltz; the second is a reverse turn, made by using four three-steps; the third is the same as the first; and the fourth is a simple cross-over and little side glide, returning to the line of dance with one twinkle."

PASSENGERS.

Arrivals.

The following passengers arrived yesterday by s.s. Macedonia:—Miss P. Finch, Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Dedear, Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Hudson, Mr. and Mrs. W. Hynes, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Woodhouse, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Johnston, Miss J. Bruce Shepherd, Mrs. G. M. Begbie, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Caroy, Rev. and Mrs. R. Thowell, Mr. W. E. B. Howell, Mr. T. N. Morris, Mr. J. B. Messer, Mr. T. Pilkington, Mr. A. E. G. Wheeler, Mr. F. Mawer, Mr. F. Minley, Mr. A. H. Cleathero, Miss D. M. Davey, Miss G. B. Tomlin, Mr. W. J. Grantham, Mrs. C. G. S. Mackie, Mrs. K. J. Moncur, Mr. D. C. Ellis, Mr. Pearson, Mr. E. W. Diamond, Mr. Ho Hong Shing, Miss M. Howe, Mr. G. H. Bryant, Mrs. M. E. Joyce.

One of Cook's voyages lasted three years, and the artists were evidently short of material on which to paint, for on the leather top and sides of the chest are portraits of all manner of subjects, in queer head-dresses painted on top of each other, the whole constituting a pictorial record of the inhabitants of the countries visited by Cook before he was murdered in the Hawaiian Islands.

CANTON TRADE
NOTES.

According to statistics compiled by the Canton Municipality, there were 301 new shops opened during July and 260 closed.

The market for woolens is weak on account of the high price caused by the exchange, and merchants are reluctant to place large orders.

The cotton yarn market is slack and prices are low. According to a Shanghai telegram, quotations
there have risen by a dollar per hale.

The flour market is lifeless on account of lack of demand, coupled with large arrivals and over-stocks. The price has dropped by six cents per bag.

The export trade to the United States has been greatly affected by the increased import customs duties there. There has been a decrease in Chinese goods sent to America.

The exchange rate for Hong Kong currency has been high recently and is expected to remain so for the time being. The current rate is $1.33 Canton to $1 Hong Kong.

Some 20,710 tons of foreign cargo were imported into the city during last month, showing a decrease of 5,225 tons over the preceding month.
Demand was short throughout the month and prices were low.

The cloth weaving industry in Fatsan has revived as there has been a healthy demand by merchants in Kwangsi, Annam and the West River districts. This has caused a slight increase in the prices of cotton yarns in Fatsan.

The export of raw silk has shown a decrease during the past two months. Only 1,018 bales of silk and 222 bales of waste silk were exported during the first half of the present month. The quantity of raw silk exported shows a decrease of about one-third as compared with the preceding month.

TO RUN UNDER PORTUGUESE FLAG.

The river steamers Paul Beau and Charles Hardoun, which were sold by public auction some time ago, will again be put into the Hong Kong-Canton service shortly. It is understood they will run in conjunction with the Tung On and Sai On which are now maintaining a night service to Canton.

The two vessels will now be operated under the Portuguese flag instead of the Red Ensign as before.
